

Coaching in Early Intervention

Partnering with Early Childhood Programs

- may not occur all in one session
- different families learn / move at different styles

- ask parents how they

"I do"

As an early interventionist, I will partner with the family and you to learn what's most important to support the child's development in your program.

I'll show you new strategies, as needed.

I'll demonstrate and model new strategies in ways that you prefer.

Ask me lots of questions!

- Say "why" - what is the purpose of activity

like to learn handouts, observe,
practice on their own, practice w/feedback right away

Together, with the family, we'll develop a plan for success.

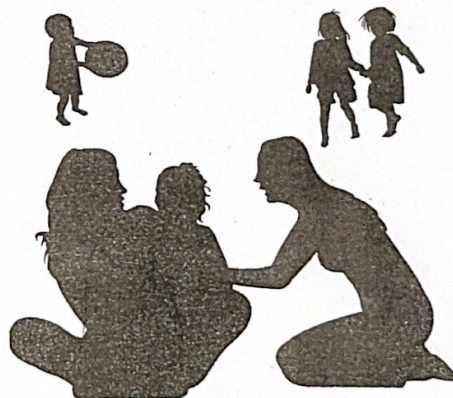

We'll work together to support the child's participation within the daily routines of your program.

I'll guide you through new strategies.

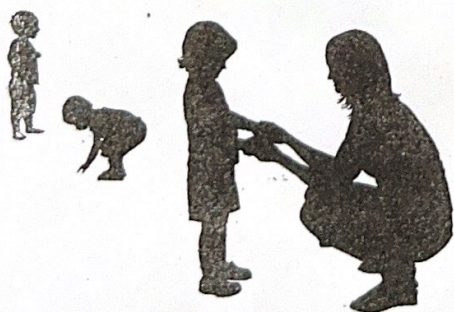

Tell me what you're thinking. I'll let you know what I think, too.

We'll figure out how to keep the family involved/informed.

"We do"

"You do"

your turn to practice!

I'll observe and give you hints and reminders here and there.

Continue to ask any questions.

Let me know what is working or not.

We can adjust the plan to meet your needs.

- remind families of coaching model as time goes on
